THE INDIAN PROBLEM. Further Conference at the Interior

Purther Conference at the Interior Department To-day.

Secretary Kirkwood and Commissioner Price had their usual matinee with the red man, Red Cloud. All of the other delegations were present. Red Cloud said that he noticed in the Black Hills the advantages through artificial irrigation by means of ditches, and he wishes that the same system could be introduced in his country. But the Indians were utturly ignorant of tem could be introduced in his country. But the Indians were utturly ignorant of the methods of the whites, and did not know how to go about digging ditches or building dams and bridges. So he asked that the Government would send them white men to do the work and they, the Sioux, would pay them for it.

Secretary Kirkwood asked him if the Indians would pitch in and help them, and Red Cloud said they would, as they were ambitious to acquire the arts of civilization.

Captain Sword chief of the Indian police at Red Cloud Agency, was then called upon to speak his wishes to the Great Father. The Captain arising, and after shaking hands and saying "How" to the officials, proceeded to say: "Great Father, I never was here before; but I am much pleased with what I have seen. The Great Father ordered fifty Indian policemen at Red Cloud Agency, and I was placed at their head, and it is in the interest of those policemen that I am here at this time. We are on a very large agency, and have a great deal to de to preserve order and peace. We do much every day, and I think the police are on a very large agency, and have a great deal to do to preserve order and peace. It is in Ursa Major, about 12° below the bottom of the bowl of the dipper, and is the upper one of a pair of faint stars. Through an opera-glass the tail is plainly visible." From information obtained at the United States Naval Observatory the new comet is in right ascension, 11h. 45m, declination, 33° 2" north. It is increasing in right ascension and moving rapidly south. Comet c, though not as bright as comet b, will be at its brightest to-night and can be plainly seen with the naked eye in the northwest close down to the horizon immediately after dark. After to-night it will begin to diminish in brightness.

THE PRESIDENT

Sions.

Dr. Boynton stated to a CRITIC man about 1 o'clock to-day that he felt more en-couraged over the President's condition than he did last night, as he thought there was now more ground for hope than then. Dr. Boynton admitted that the President's mind was not exactly clear at all times and had more than once showed the effects of his exhausted condition. The President

Wandered in His Mind more or less ever since the shooting, but it was only for a time, just after awakening from a sleep for instance, and his senses always came back to him in due season. Dr. Boynton also admitted that small quantities of laudanum had been mixed with the President's enemater, but no trouble could possibly arise from that cause, as the doses were so small. Dr. Boynton was of the opinion that The Inflamed Gland will do its worst or have disappeared entirely within two or three days. He does not feel concerned over the result, and thinks the swelling will go away without any bad effects. Neither does he anticipate any further trouble from the President's stomach. Altogether, Dr. Boynton spoke in a more reassuring strain than he has done for some days past.

No Indications of Nausca Up to this hour, 1.30 p. m., the President has retained 12 ounces of liquid food and 2 of enemata to-day. The phlegm is less troublesome, and there has been no indica-

Still in a Precarious Condition.

Affairs were very quiet at the White House to-day. The anxiety of yesterday has been displaced by a general air of hopefulness. There was a more cheerful look on every face. All, however, seem to recognize that the President is still in a precarious condition. That his stomach has not again proved intelerant of food is viewed as a favorable feature. Dr. Bliss also made a statement about noon, that the circulation and temperature of the President's blood was much better than yesterday. There were not many callers to-day. Among the early visitors outside of the Cabinet officers, were Gen. Tyner, Public Printer Defrees, the Mexican Minister, and Gen. H. Mattson, United States Consul General at Cakcutta.

Agnew and Hamilton. Still in a Precarious Condition.

Agnew and Hamilton Dr. Agnew will leave for Philadelphia to-morrow, and Dr. Hamilton will arrive here from New York to-morrow evening.

Exhaustion the Only Danger Now. Dr. Bliss was in and out of Private Secretary Brown's office all the morning, and talked freely of the President's case. He said at noon that they feel as though they had gotten the swelling in the face well in hand, and they do not expect any danger from it. His epinion was that it would suppurate. Four or five days will show exactly what to expect from the swellen gland. The physicians could not, of course, tell what will happen, but as already stated Dr. Bliss does not anticipate any trouble. He holds that the only danger now is that the President may die from exhaustion if the stomach cannot take food enough to counteract the natural drain upon his system and the drain from the suppuration of the wound. Dr. Bliss says tne President's stomach now tooks as if it will be able to meet all demands upon it. He thinks it is all right again, and that they will be able to bring the President through eventually. Dr. Bliss was in and out of Private Secretually.

Dr. Hamilton Interviewed in New York.

New York, Aug. 22.—When Dr. Hamilton returned from Washington it was with the understanding that he would relieve Dr. Agnew on Tuesday night, unless fresh developments should make his presence necessary sooner. Dr. Hamilton was, however, met at his residence this morning by a National Associated Press reporter, and said: "I dou't expect to return to the Capital. I don't expect to return to the Capital until to-morrow a termoon, when I have arranged to go by the 3:30 o'clock limited express,"

"You have no dispatch recalling you?"

asked the reporter.
"None, and I hardly expect any."
"You would be recalled in an eme

"Undoubtedly I should, but I hope none will arise. The symptoms, according to the morning dispatches, are unfavorable, but while they are serious they are not of such a character as to indicate any im-mediate danger, I should think."
"Would you mind saying what your opinion is of the cause of yesterday's vomiting?"

"I cannot express an opinion."
"I did not know but that the symptoms were of so definite a sort that they might warrant a definite opinion."
"Oh, you can see for yourself that the vomiting is caused by the flow of mucus into the throat."
"Not from any gastric trouble or blood poisoning?" was asked.

poisoning?" was asked.
"Not at all; only from flow of mucus from the salivary glands into the throat."

The President Terribly Emaciated. The Washington correspondent of the New York Herald telegraphed as follows last night: "It was very hot during the afternoon and astorm threatened to come out of a bank of clouds in the northwest. The President had dozed a little at intervals, but President had dozed a little at intervals, but seemed to feel the heat as he had in the morning and asked that the windows be opened higher. When this was done he was able to see the sky where the clouds were gathering, and at his own request he was turned so that he could gaze at them, the pillows being bolstered up so as to allow him to do so. He lay in that position a long time; the attendants thought he was sleeping, until by the reflection of the mirror on the wall they chanced to catch a glimpse of his face and saw that he was wide awake and that his eyes were wide open, and that he was gazing vacantly, and apparently without see-saw that he was wide awake and that his eyes were wide open, and that he was gazing vacantly, and apparently without seeing anything, out of the window. In order that the air in the room might be kept as pure as possible the door opening into the corridor had been opened and a screen of slats about six feet high wheeled partially in front of it, but over which one could look by standing on tiptoe so as to catch the reflection of the President's face as he lay there. I talked with one of the family visitors to-night who had taken advantage, as others had, of this opportunity to see the patient, and, to quote his words, "I could not believe he was the same man I saw in health less than months ago. It was incredible to me that such a change could have taken place, and I started back in horror. The eyes were sunken, the cheeks sunken and pallid, and the lips absolutely without a shade of color. I looked again when I recovered myself, and I saw that he lay on his back and that his head was raised on two pillows with a third inserted between the two at the side nearest me so that the pillow sloped toward the window. He looked like a ghost. Of course I did not pause to take more than a glance. We were fearful that he might catch sight of us himself and be annoyed, and so we passed on. But by that glance I saw Gen. Swaim sitting at the that he might cauch sight of us minsent and be annoyed, and so we passed on. But by that glance I saw Gen. Swaim sitting at the foot of the bed and Dr. Boynton standing near a table on which there were some medicines and dishes."

The Average Pulse, etc.

The following table was prepared at the Health office to-day by J. N. Dickson : Avcrage pulse, temperature and respiration of the President during forty-nine days of his sickness, beginning July 2 and ending August 20—Pulse, 105.24; temperature, 90.94°; respiration, 18.40. 2:30 P. M.

Considerable liquid nourishment has been retained since the last bulletin, and the stomach still acts satisfactorily. The general condition seems slightly improved.

3 P. M.

A quiet confidence now prevails at the White House. The excitement of yesterday seems to have died out completely, although there is still great anxiety felt on all sides. Dr. Bliss states that there has been no material change in the President's condition since the noonday bulletin. He has slept most of the afternoon. So far to-day he has taken and retained twenty-two ounces of nourishment—koumiss and porridge—by the mouth. The encemata have also been continued. No unfavorable symptoms are looked for to-day. Another Explanation of To-day's Another Explanation of To-day's Bulletin.

The correspondent of the National Associated Press telegraphed the following this afternoon: The noon bulletin is generally accepted as an indication, at least, that the President has held his own during the day. Dr. Bliss says there has been a slight improvement since yesterday.

He says it will be impossible to tell just what will come of the parotid swelling for four or five days yet, but that it seems to be giving less trouble to day and is not likely to cause more serious annoyance. The to cause more serious annoyance. The wound, he says, is doing nicely. The greatest fear he now has of fatal consequences is from exhaustion. The stomach again looks as if it would be equal to all demands.

If it should not continue to be the President would great works.

If it should not continue to be the President would grow worse. Dr. Bliss says, however, that he believes the stomach is going to do its part, and the patient will recover. Dr. Boynton says, also, he does not give up. He says the parotid swelling has turned out to be a less acute case than was feared. It is likely to cause some annoyance for several days, but is not necessarily dangerous. The anxious feeling continues, and all eyes are on the stomach.

At 1:30 p. m. there had been no recurrence

At 1:30 p. m. there had been no recurrence of vomiting. Up to that hour the President had had eight ounces of milk porridge and four of koumiss by the mouth and two enemas. The President has slept considerable during the day, and has much less trouble from phlegm in the throat.

The President's Mother and Children. The statement in the Baltimore San this morning that Capt. Henry, Marshal of the District, has gone to Ohio to bring the President's mother and his younger children to this city is absurd and false. Capt. Henry came to Washington of his own accord on the occasion of the President's last relapse, leaving business there untransacted, and has just returned there, also on his own accord, to finish it up. He felt encouraged by the improvement in the President's condition to do so. There is no intention of bringing the President's mother and his children to this city.

The following was sent to-day:

"Lovell, Minister, London:

"The President's condition has somewhat improved since the last report. He has not vomited for twenty or twenty-one hours, and during the forenoon has swallowed liquid food several times, in all about ten ounces. Weather very warm, but does not The statement in the Baltimore Sun this

When Capt. Howgate was dismissed, after his bail bond had been completed, he received an ovation from his numerous friends and left the office with a cordon of gathered about him.

An Edge-Tool Thief.

Charles Williams, alias Meredith, colored, was to-day charged in the Police Court with stealing a lot of cutlery and razors with stealing a lot of currery and from Mr. Anderson Archer, at the corner of Four-and-a-half and I streets southwest. Charles, who is very stalwart and also very block seems to have a penchant for the black, seems to have a penchant for the illicit abstraction of edge-tools, as this is the second time he has been arrested for a like offense. The value of the articles alleged to have been stolen was about $20. The case was continued under bonds.

The Conservative executive committee will meet to-night to complete arrangements for the primary election to select a candidate for the house of delegates. As yet, Judge Charles E. Stuart has no opposition. The city Republican executive committee has been reorganized, with Francis Ross as chairman, as follows: First Ward, Henry Newman and Augustus Rainey; Second Ward, Henry Johnson and Jesse Banks; Third Ward, James Ross and C. A Jackson; Fourth Ward, Robert James and Robert Williams.

A number of saloon-keepers yesterday threw open their doors, according to an agreement between themselves, for the purpose of testing the validity of the Sunday law recently passed by the City Council, which they claim is unconstitutional. They were all reported, as they wished to be, and fined this morning by the mayor. They paid their fines under protest, and will carry the case to court. Messrs. Edmund Burk and Judge Charles E. Stuart have been retained as counsel. THE BLOODY LIST.

At 6 o'clock this morning James Curry, a colored man, died at his home, at the corner of Twelfth and C streets southeast, from the result of injuries received in a struggle with Bert Cross, another colored man, on August 12. New York Times, 220.

Paul Sigel, the young son of Gen. Franz Sigel, who while in the employ of Bennett, Day & Co., of No. 249 Washington street, as assistant book-keeper and collector, absconded on July 7, taking with him money and checks belonging to his employers, was arrested last Saturday evening by an officer of the Thirty-third Precinct. A few days after his flight the checks, and other paners were the Thirty-third Precinct. A few days after his flight the checks and other papers were sent back to the firm. Young Sigel is now charged with having appropriated to his own use $335 collected on behalf of his em-ployers. He was held for examination on the charge of embezzlement.
